

HLTH110 - Medical Terminology

This exam for HLTH110, Medical Terminology evaluates knowledge of the prefixes, suffixes, root words, and combining forms utilized in the word building system of medical terminology. Application of the this word building system to discern the meanings of medical terms is necessary including the ability to apply the appropriate medical terminology to the different organ systems of the human body. Topics included are correct spelling of the medical terms and word parts and correct medical abbreviations and symbols.

Minimum Passing Score: 80%

DU competency exams satisfy requirements at DU but are not transferable to other educational institutions. Students may not take this test if they have previously taken this course or received a failing grade in the course. The test may only be taken one time.

1/2013